William Winfield Speer

From a letter of Mrs William Winfield Speer, 307 W. Marquette Rd., Chicago, is quoted the following::

"After the death of my husband's mother, the three children were separated. William went to live with an uncle and aunt in or near Oil City,Pa. I am under the impression that the name was McClintock.....He was sent to Adrian College, Michigan. The president of that college was a friend of William's father. When about fifteen he ran away from college and joined the Union army at Kalamazoo,Mich. He was wounded as they were chasing Morgan and sent to a hospital. When he was better he returned to service and was made Quartermaster Sergt. He afterward became a teacher and was Supt of the Marshalltown,Iowa,Schools for several years. Then came to Chicago as teacher of mathematics and assistant principal of the Cook Co.,Normal at the request of Col. Parker. He eventually became Dist Supt of the Chicago Schools and ~~afterwards~~ several years retired. After retiring for about three years lectured at the Art Institute on Psychology. The titles of his books are::

Speer's Arithmetic - Primary for Teachers
Speer's Arithmetic - elementary for pupils
Speer's Arithmetic- advanced

I am enclosing an article which was written by Supt Bogan of the Chicago Schools and published in 1931

The aeticle follows::

Progressive Education in Chicago.
William J. Bogan
Superintendent of Schools

"The origin of progressive education with a capital "P" is onscure. Like nearly every other break with tradition, this new developement in education has spring from many sources. In Chicago the names of Francis W. Parker, William W. Speer, and John Dewey come to mind whenever genuine progress in education is discussed. Though they were not products of Chicago, they did their most valuable work for the schools while in Chicago. Parker set the pace; and associated with him in the remarkable work of the old Cook Co.,Normal school was Speer, who later demonstrated his genius in the Washington and other West Side elementary schools, Chicago. Parker and Dewey carried on their work with small classes and teachers with special preparation, while Speer worked under the normal conditions of the public school with large classes and teachers trained by himself. For years these men were the cynosure of educational eyes in all parts of the world. Visitors flocked to Chicago by thousands to observe the applications of their theories. It is significant and encouraging that these great educational leaders like great poets, were very democratic. It is a serious reflection upon Chicago ideals that these great men met much opposition from the educational world - the world of their day - but their spirit, luckily for the children of the new day, goes marching on".

This family is believed to be related to the "BW" line q.v. in this way: That this 1.James is the son of James & Mary (Patterson) Speer who lived in York Co.,Pa at this time. The U.S. census 1790 gives James "Speers" as in Chanceford Twp, that he was a Revolutionary Soldier b in York Co.,Pa 1755. All of which corresponds. The "BW" line tradition is that he was at the surrender of Cornwallis. No proof is yet available in full. This author has no account of the descendents of that James Speer unless this be they.

These two families were thus intermarried in York Co.,Pa. It seems probable that this James Speers is to be identified with the James Speer who was a son of James and Mary(Patterson) Speer of York Co.,Pa same twp,same dates.

Rev. Charles and Rev. John Murray Spear
(Tentatively identified as in my code "Brain" see page 10 as sons of Lieut Seth Spear)
This is not proven here. But Alpheus, also son of Lieut Seth Spear had two sons Charles Adams and John Murray. From the fact that these men were both prominent and that their birth dates fit exactly as the two youngest sons of Lt Seth Spear, this tentative identification is made. For life of Rev. Charles A. Spear see AMERICANA.
